ASSESSMENT

26-year-old male with attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder, combined type (ICD-10 F90.2), confirmed by clinical interview and validated rating scales (adult ADHD self-report scale). Symptoms include persistent inattention, distractibility, and difficulty completing tasks, impairing work performance. No history of substance misuse; cardiac review of systems unremarkable, baseline BP and HR within normal limits.

PRIOR THERAPIES TRIED

- Strattera (atomoxetine) 80 mg daily x 10 weeks — inadequate symptom control.
- Concerta (methylphenidate ER) 54 mg daily x 8 weeks — partial response with appetite suppression and afternoon rebound; discontinued.

PLAN

Transition to an extended-release amphetamine product given inadequate response to atomoxetine and methylphenidate. Reviewed risks/benefits of stimulant therapy, controlled-substance agreement signed. Follow up in 4 weeks.
